

Labelling advisory services

Meet regulatory and compliance food labelling requirements

LRQA's labelling advisory services helps you ensure your food packaging labels display the mandatory information required by law in the countries in which your goods are sold.

Our team will work with you to translate English language product information into multiple languages, making sure each one is legally and technically compliant according to government requirements.

Our labelling advisory services help you:

- Access legal and sector technical experts working as an extension of your team
- Meet country legal requirements confidently
- Streamline the design process for multi-language and multi-jurisdiction labelling
- Save time and money
- Mitigate labelling compliance, food recall, legal liability and penalty risks
- Reduce packaging waste
- Ensure consumers can make informed choices

Avoid common risks

Correct labelling reduces barriers to trade, while mitigating against the following risks:
